

Postgraduate Students' Seminar Series 2024

Biography

Dr. Oladosu Ayomide is a Research Fellow at the School of Graduate Studies, Lingnan University, specializing in population health and wellbeing. His current research spans two critical areas: enhancing the quality of life and wellbeing of older adults and addressing mental health issues among young people and women. Through his research, he actively advocates for age-friendly city initiatives to ensure the improved quality of life and wellbeing of older adults. Additionally, he is dedicated to exploring methods to enhance mental health support for young people, and women during the perinatal period. Dr. Oladosu also teaches interdisciplinary courses such as Social Services and Health, Research Methods, and China-Africa Relations.

Dr. Oladosu Ayomide Oluwaseyi
Lingnan University